THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer, May 31.]

HENRY CLAY ON ABOLITIONISM.

The people of Kentucky yesterday dedicated a statue to the memory of Henry Clay, the great Commoner, the brilliancy of whose genius has reflected so much honor and lustre upon the State, and who, for thirty years, was one of the most distinguished of all our public men. We quote, as appropriate to the time, the memorable warning of Mr. Clay as to the injurious effects of the Abolition agitation in the North, delivered in the Senate of the United States, in 1839, which prophesy has had so painful and melancholy a realization. Looking down the vista of the future with the glance of the seer, the statesman of Kentucky predicted what would be the consequences if Abolitionism organized into a sectional Northern party. How truly it has come to pass, and how unfortunate that his warning was not regarded, we can perceive at a glance. Here it is, in his speech upon the Abolition question, made, as we have before stated, in 1839. We quote from Colton's Life of Henry Clay, page 157, volume 6. He said:

"Sir—I am not in the habit of speaking lightly of the possibility of dissolving this happy Union. The Senate knows that I have deprecated allusions, on ordinary occasions, to that direful event. The country will testify that if there be any thing in the history of my public career worthy of recollection, it is the truth and sincerity of my ardent devotion to its lasting preservation. But we should be false to our allegiance to it if we do not discriminate between the imaginary and real dangers by which it may be assailed. Abolition should no longer be regarded as an imaginary danger. The Abolitionists, let me suppose, succeed in their present aim of uniting the inhabitants of the free States as one man against the inhabitants of the slave States; union on the one side will beget union on the other, and the process of reciprocal consolidation will be attended with all the violent prejudices, embittered passions and implacable animosities which ever degraded or deformed human nature. A virtual dissolution of the Union will have taken place while the forms of its existence remain. The most valuable element of Union, mutual kindness, the feelings of sympathy, the fraternal bonds which now happily unite us, will have been extinguished forever—one section will stand in menacing and hostile array against the other. The collision of opinion will be quickly followed by the clash of arms. I will not now attempt to describe scenes which now happily lie concealed from our view. Abolitionists themselves would shrink back in dismay and horror at the contemplation of desolated fields, conflagrated cities, murdered inhabitants and the overthrow of the fairest fabric of human government that ever rose to animate the hopes of civilized man. Nor should these Abolitionists flatter themselves that, if they succeed in their object of uniting the people of the States, they will enter the contest with a numerical superiority that must ensure victory. All history and experience prove the hazard and uncertainty of war. And we are admonished by Holy Writ that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong. But if they were to conquer, whom should they conquer? A foreign foe; one who has insulted our flag, invaded our shores and laid our country in waste? No, sir; no, sir! It would be a conquest without laurels, without glory; a self, a suicidal conquest; a conquest of brothers over brothers, achieved by one over another portion of the descendants of common ancestors, who nobly pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor, and fought and bled, side by side, in many a hard battle on land and ocean—severed our country from the British Crown and established our independence."

M. THIERS lately spoke in the French Legislative Chamber for three and a half hours without touching a glass of water, and without notes, and after dinner sat up until 3 o'clock A. M. revising the report of his speech, that it might appear in the morning's Moniteur, where it fills fifteen and a half closely printed columns. He is seventy five years old. He still works, whenever he can, on his "History of Florence."

A NEGRO in Virginia is gradually turning white. During the seven day's fight around Richmond he observed a small white spot on his arm. This has increased until one-third of his body is white and the skin is soft as an infant's. He ought to hurry and register before it is too late.

Another dispatch to the same paper says: "Congressman Schofield, of Pennsylvania, to-day expressed the belief that there would be no July session. Mr. Woodbridge, of Vermont, and Mr. McPherson, Clerk of the House, are of the same opinion."

Beecher is taking sides with Greeley. He says he honors the philosopher of the Tribune for his conduct in signing the Davis bail-bond, and would have done so himself had he been asked. Beecher has no idea of being classed among "the blockheads."

An Indian passing up the streets of Natchez, a few days since, was asked the relative position of white man, negro and Indian.—Giving a usual "Ugh!" he said: "Pore the war, fust cum white man, den injin, den dog, den nigger; now, cum nigger, den dog, den injin, and white man last!"

In New York an ingenious mechanic has made a novel invention, designed for the comfort of horses during the hot weather. It consists of a small reservoir, filled with water, placed upon the animal's head, keeping the brain cool, and thus warding off the effects of the heat and sun-stroke.

A Radical organ advises that Congress forbid the Alabama Legislature to call a new county "Dixie." How long before the Radical organs will be for prescribing how Southern parents shall name their children?

General Gillem, one of the negro bureau gentry, reports from Mississippi that "there is very little change in the marriage relations of the freedmen." They still continue to "take up together" as before the war.

M. Du Chaillu, the great African explorer, has incurred the displeasure and invoked the wrath of the Radicals for his opinions of the inferiority of the negro to the white race.

The National Intelligencer says Gen. Schofield's late order is despotic.

Henderson, of Mo., a vile trickster, with brains but no principle, is spoken of for the Vice Presidency.

Grateful for the flattering patronage with which we have heretofore been so kindly favored, we respectfully solicit an increased share of the patronage of the citizens of Raleigh and the surrounding country. Without specially gassing, we deem it sufficient to say, that our stock mostly embraces such articles as are usually found in Family Groceries. Most of our goods have been recently bought in New York and Baltimore, for cash, and we hope to be able to sell them on satisfactory terms. In addition to our stock of Groceries, &c., we have a fine lot of

HATS AND READY MADE CLOTHING

and a splendid lot of Confectioneries, consisting of all of which will be sold on reasonable terms.

We have also a fine lot of genuine Durham Smoking Tobacco, which we can implicitly recommend to "those who smoke." Please call and see us.

We will pay particular attention to all consignments of Produce and Merchandise entrusted to our care and will endeavor to sell at the best market prices. Consignments are respectfully solicited. By a prompt and close attention to business and fair dealing with all, we hope to merit and receive a share of public patronage.

ASTROLOGY.

THE WORLD ASTONISHED

AT THE WONDERFUL REVELATIONS

MADE BY THE GREAT ASTROLOGIST,

Madame H. A. PERRIGO.

She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew. She restores to happiness those who, from doleful events, catastrophes, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those long separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, recovers lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives you the name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the maker stars that overcome or predominate in the configuration—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest Astrologist on earth. It costs you but a trifle, and you may never again have so favorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. A full and explicit chart, written out, with all inquiries answered and likeness enclosed, sent by mail on receipt of price above mentioned. The strictest secrecy will be maintained, and all correspondence returned or destroyed. References of the highest order furnished those desiring them. Write plainly the day of the month and year in which you were born, enclosing a small lock of hair.

GEN. SICKLES' ORDER No. 32.

We shall publish, for some time, for the information of our people, on the outside of the daily, and in the semi-weekly and weekly, General Order No. 32 of the Commanding General. The copy which we publish has been corrected by the official document, and is couched in language sufficiently plain to be understood by all.

The high eulogy passed upon the people of North Carolina by the Commanding General, at the reception of the President, on Monday, as to their observance of law and order, was not only well merited, but highly gratifying to them. The Order, No. 32, which appeared next morning, was read by them with unmingled surprise.

Our people are truly loyal to the government and steadily retain their ancient devotion to law and order. They are anxious to approve all that Gen. Sickles says and does. We most heartily sympathize with this feeling. The Order 32 will be, and should be, punctiliously obeyed, yet they were not aware of any facts which rendered necessary so radical a departure, at this time, from the laws and time-honored customs of the State, as the Order contemplates, and we therefore find among the people a deep anxiety, fearing that portions of the Order may tend to interfere with the well known desire and purposes of the Commanding General to preserve entire quiet and order among all classes. There is no danger, whatever, that the quiet of society will be disturbed by our white population. But the secret and dangerous influences which are being exerted, by bad advice, over the colored population, and by agents unsuspected and unknown to the Commanding General, create an uneasiness and a depression, under this order, which we have not seen before among our people.—We sincerely trust that their apprehensions may not be realized.

IMPEACHMENT.

After a long and laborious session, conducted in all the spirit of the Star-Chamber, the Judiciary Committee of Congress, which was charged with the matter of the impeachment of President Johnson, has at last arrived at a conclusion. The most corrupt and iniquitous tribunals, of which history makes any mention, have not prosecuted their inquisitions with more rigid, unscrupulous, ex-parte and vindictive details. An impertinent enquiry has been instituted into even the most private minutiæ of the President's life, a degrading and disgusting espionage has been established over his household and domestic affairs, and prominent members of the Committee have not scrupled, in the dark and secret hours of the night, to hold converse with a criminal, convicted of perjury and confined in a felon's cell, for the purpose of extorting something (probably with a promise of pardon as the reward) to the prejudice of the Chief Magistrate of the Nation.

After so extraordinary and disgraceful a train of proceedings, the Committee are compelled to acknowledge that they have utterly failed to elicit anything, in the private or public life of the President, to justify their cherished project of impeachment. But conscious that something must be done, to excuse their conduct before the country, they could not adjourn without a brutum fulmen, in the shape of a vague and indefinite declaration that the President deserves the censure of the people. Most lame and impotent conclusion! Such a sequel to such labors will elevate the President still higher in the confidence of all good men, and is the severest reflection that this Committee could have heaped upon themselves.

"Ex-Governor Perry, of South Carolina, has written another letter, the main points in which are that a convention is obliged to give universal suffrage; that the negroes will have a majority of votes, and will elect whom they please; that the negroes have already proclaimed that property alone, and not persons, must be taxed; that negro rule will be worse than anything that Congress can do, and that for these reasons every man should vote against a convention, which, he says, cannot be held if the whole race are united to vote it down. He says that it is a craven and cowardly spirit, which prompts the adoption of the Military bill, and that there is no reason to fear confiscation."—Correspondence N. Y. Herald.

No man in the country can question the purity of Gov. Perry's motives, the honesty of his purposes, or his devotion to the principles of Constitutional freedom. His record has been that of unswerving and consistent Unionism before the war, throughout the war, and up to the present moment. It is among the men of such antecedents in this State, as well as elsewhere, that we find the most violent hostility to Radical usurpations and aggressions.

While we honor such men as Gov. Perry, and place an exalted estimate upon the integrity of their intentions, we think that the counsel which he has tendered the people of the South, in his recent series of letters, is not judicious or well-advised. If there could have been any question in the premises before, we think that the events and indications of the past few days should dissipate all controversy.

We cannot speak of these things in such terms as will meet the case, for obvious reasons. We may simply say that the late developments impress upon our people, in a ten-fold greater degree than ever, the imperative necessity of reconstruction under the Acts of Congress. American citizens must feel that any form of government is preferable to an arbitrary and irresponsible one-man power.

ORATION

PRONOUNCED BY

Tuesday, June 4, 1867,

On the occasion of the completion of the Monument to the memory of JACOB JOHNSON, father of President Johnson.

The County of Wake, erected in 1772, perpetuates the maiden name of the amiable and accomplished lady of Governor Tryon. The County of Tryon was established the preceding year, and became, ten years thereafter, the enduring memorial of the revolutionary General Lincoln. The name of Tryon has been expunged from the map of the State, but not from the memories of men. The unenviable fame of the royal Governor, and the good name of Lady Wake, uneffaced and ineffaceable by the tide of revolution, are alike immortal.

The city of Raleigh is the beautiful and appropriate monument erected by the new, to one of the most illustrious political martyrs of the old, world, and by North Carolina to the author of the first attempt at colonization within her borders.

On the fourth of April, 1792, Colonel Joel Lane conveyed to the State one thousand acres of land immediately contiguous to his residence at Wake Court House. Four hundred acres were divided into 176 lots and five squares. UNION, on which the State House stands, is the central square.—The other four bear the names of four distinguished revolutionary soldiers and statesmen, Caswell, Burke, Nash and Moore.

The position of Colonel Lane in the society of that day, and as the founder of the city, will justify a somewhat particular reference to his personal history. He was one of three brothers, Joel, Joseph and Jesse, who removed from the vicinity of Halifax, on the Roanoke, more than a hundred years ago, to the comparative wilderness in Johnston County, where we now stand. His dwelling, the residence of the late William Boylan, Esq., erected some years previous to the foundation of Raleigh, was considered, at the time, a rare specimen of architectural elegance. He was the eldest, the wealthiest, and the most widely known of the three brothers. He was a member of the Provisional Convention called by SAMUEL JOHNSTON, which met at Hillsborough on the 21st of August, 1775, in defiance of the proclamation of Governor Martin, issued twelve days in advance, forbidding the assemblage "in the heart of the Province," "of a body of men with the purpose of extending more widely the traitorous and rebellious designs of the enemies of his Majesty and his government," denouncing the resolves of a "set of people styling themselves a Committee of the County of Mecklenburg, most traitorously declaring the dissolution of the laws, government and Constitution of the country," and the address of William Hooper, Joseph Hewes, and Richard Caswell to the citizens of the Province as "a publication, the preposterous enormity of which cannot be adequately described and abhorred."—The Convention responded by a resolution that the proclamation should be burned by the common hangman, as a false, scandalous, scurrilous, mischievous and seditious libel.

The General Assembly of this most rebellious of Provinces, amidst the darkest hours of the revolution, met at the house of Joel Lane, in June, 1781, and elected THOMAS BURKE, one of the most eminent of the men of revolutionary renown, the third Governor of the State. Col. Lane was, at the time, Senator of Wake, and continued, with the exception of a single session, to represent the County in the Senate during the succeeding fourteen years, and until his death in 1795.

Shortly subsequent to the conveyance to the State of the site for the seat of government, he tendered to the Trustees of the University the liberal donation of his plantation adjoining White Plains, as an inducement to locate the Institution within five miles of the Capital.

A recent historian, Chaplain George W. Pepper, who has occasion to refer to the history of Raleigh, in connection with the triumphant march and occupancy of the city by Sherman's army, speaks of Col. Lane as the progenitor of the late Senator from Kansas. This is a mistake. General Joseph Lane, late Senator from Oregon, the candidate for the Vice Presidency on the Breckenridge ticket, Governor Henry S. Lane, late Senator from Indiana, and the late Hon. George W. Lane, District Judge of the United States for Alabama, were three cousins, the grandsons of Jesse, and great nephews of Colonel Joel Lane.

North Carolina has been said to be a good State to remove from. The compliment seems to be pre eminently due to the County of Wake. The late William White was appointed Secretary of State in 1798.—About the time of his removal to Raleigh, he purchased three plantations in the neighborhood of the City, of moderate value.—Brownwell Vick, who conveyed one, is understood to have been the founder of the City of Vicksburg; a second was, in 1790, the residence of Robert Orr, the father of the present Governor of South Carolina, and the third the residence of Osborne Pape Nicholson, the father of the Hon. A. O. P. Nicholson, late Senator in Congress from Tennessee.

The reference to the foundation of the city, in connection with subsequent details, may enable us to understand more clearly, and appreciate more accurately, the claims to consideration of the individual to whose memory we consecrate this obelisk.

The corner stone of the old State-house was laid early in 1792, and the General Assembly met within its walls for the first time 31st. of December, 1794. The not very rapid growth of the city during the three first years of its chartered existence may be inferred, and an approximate idea of its extent derived, from an editorial article copied from the North Carolina Journal, published at Halifax, on the 15th. of January, 1795:

"We learn, from a gentleman of the first respectability at Raleigh, that the accommodations at that place during the present session have exceeded all expectation, and that comfortable boarding could now be furnished for at least one hundred persons more."

The late Joseph Gales published the first number of "The Raleigh Register" in the autumn of 1799. Hodge & Boylan transferred "The Fayetteville," changed to "The Raleigh, Minerva," from Fayetteville to Raleigh, a few months thereafter, and Jones & Henderson issued the first number of "The Star" Tuesday, 3rd. October, 1809.

In March, 1810, we find the following indication of the primitive condition of society in the political metropolis. William White, Esq., Secretary of State and Secretary of the Trustees of the Raleigh Academy, publishes in their behalf a advertisement beginning with the following announcement: "The Trustees of the Raleigh Academy have the pleasure to inform the public, that they have engaged the Rev. William McPheeters, from Virginia, a gentleman eminently qualified for the undertaking, to become the Principal of the Academy, and PASTOR OF THE CITY, and that he will certainly enter upon these important duties on or about the first of May next."

This happy state of Christian unity and Christian charity continued for some years. Notwithstanding the severance of Church and State contemplated by the constitutions of the State and of the United States, the Christian religion was properly considered a part of the common law. The State-House was the church of the city, and the only church in the city, and the late Rev. Dr. McPheeters, the Pastor, and the only Pastor, of the church and city. Nearly a quarter of a century has elapsed since this good man passed to his reward, but there are still thousands in the State and city who cherish his memory with no ordinary feelings of veneration and respect. I knew him personally during many years, and can truly testify that I have rarely known a character possessed of such numerous and decided traits of excellence. Pious, without asceticism, intolerance or bigotry,—firm, but not obstinate, in the maintenance of his opinions,—cheerful, without stooping to frivolity,—easy of approach, kind and conciliatory in manner,—but a lion when courage, moral or physical, was required, he was eminently qualified to fill the extraordinary office of City Pastor. His Holiness of Rome does not, perhaps, feel himself more at ease in his supremacy in the Eternal City, than did Dr. McPheeters in Raleigh before the establishment of separate churches. His own denomination is chargeable with the earliest abandonment of the State House.—The Presbyterian church was built in 1817. Two others, the Methodist and Baptist, were added before my earliest acquaintance with the City.

During MR. JOHNSON'S day the bell which summoned the General Assembly to the discharge of their public duties, and the pious of every shade of opinion to their devotions, was the only bell in the city. The graveyard was without enclosure; a public road ran through it, and the rude stone with the meagre inscription at the head of his grave, displaced by this more appropriate monument, was probably quite equal, perhaps superior, to the ordinary memorials of wealthier and more conspicuous men.

The number of the white population of Raleigh in April, 1811, nine months previous to MR. JOHNSON'S death, seems, from a published record, a copy of which is before me, presenting the names of all white males above the age of 21 years, to have been not more than six or seven hundred. At that date John S. Raboteau, William Jones and Mark Cook, acting under the authority of the Commissioners, arranged the white males above the age of 21 years in twenty classes, without the omission, as I suppose, of any other name than that of Dr. McPheeters.

William White, Secretary of State, John Haywood, Public Treasurer, and Henry Potter, Judge of the District Court of the United States, are privates under the leadership of one of the following twenty Captains: 1. Isaac Lane; 2. William Peace; 3. William Scott; 4. William Boylan; 5. Joseph Gales; 6. Thomas Emond, 7. Southey Bond; 8. John Wyatt; 9. Joseph Peace; 10. Samuel Goodwin; 11. Beverly Daniel; 12. William Peck; 13. Willis Rogers; 14. Sherwood Haywood; 15. William Jones; 16. John S. Raboteau; 17. James Coman; 18. Benjamin L. King; 19. Robert Cannon; 20. JACOB JOHNSON.

The most prominent names in connection with the newspaper press are to be found in classes Nos. 5. and 12. Joseph Gales, Senior Editor of the Raleigh Register, had for his subordinates in number 5. John Stewart, (Merchant,) William W. Seaton, Coleman Miller, Daniel Peck, and Benjamin Pulliam, Jr.

William Peck was followed by Robert Harrison, Hardy Sanders, Thomas Henderson, Alexander Lucas and John Dodd.

JACOB JOHNSON, at the head of number twenty, was associated with Daniel Beard, Henry B. Mears and Wm. P. Ferrell.

The City Church presents no more striking indication of republican symplicity of manners, of the absence of aristocratic distinctions, and of the spirit of kindness which characterized all social intercourse, than the arrangement of the City Watch. The newspaper press affords still more conclusive evidence of universal charity and good will among all classes of society.—The venerable Joseph Gales was the senior of the editorial fraternity in years and editorial experience. No one that knew him ever thinks of him but as the impersonation of kindness, benevolence and charity. His oldest son, Joseph Gales, Jr., was then at Washington, the editor of the National Intelligencer. The removal of Mr. Seaton, the son-in-law of the elder, the brother-in-law of the junior Joseph Gales, a few months afterwards transferred the names of Gales and Seaton from the head of the Register to the Intelligencer, and the Register, returning to its original status, with Joseph Gales, Sr., as editor, continued the assurance so familiar to newspaper readers of the last generation:—

"Ours are the plans of fair, delightful peace, Unwarped by party rage, to live like brothers."

Raleigh in this instance gave to Washington City a brace of editors trained in the office of the Raleigh Register, who published during nearly half a century a paper that for ability, fairness, courtesy, dignity, purity and elegance of style, was pronounced by a competent judge to compare favorably with the London Times, and certainly to be second to no Gazette in this country.

Alexander Lucas was at that time the editor of the Minerva. He was one of the few compositors in any country able to set in type the sparkling paragraphs which graced his editorial columns, without previously arranging his thoughts in writing.

I have no files of the Register, or Minerva, at hand for the year previous to Mr. JOHNSON'S death, but I have a complete volume of the Star, beginning with the 5th of January and closing with the 27th. of December, 1811.

We were on the verge of a war with Great Britain. The most exciting topics agitated the public mind then as now. There were party questions, a majority and a minority. Though but ten years old I read the Star, from week to week, during that year, with intense interest. I have just refreshed my memory by a pains-taking examination of the editorial columns. It was a weekly paper, containing not more than two thirds of the reading matter found at present in the Tri-Weekly Standard or the Daily Sentinel. The editorials are comparatively few in number, and all the original articles under the Raleigh head rarely exceeded half a column in extent. The obituary articles especially are commendably brief and modest. The one to which I will have occasion to call your attention in the course of my remarks occupies more than the average space afforded to the most distinguished individuals who passed away during the year.

A more remarkable characteristic of the journalism of that period, and less in keeping with the character of the present times, is that there is not during the year a single unkind editorial remark, much less disparaging epithet, not even a discourteous allusion to any one of the editors of the Register and Minerva. On the twelfth of July, the oration delivered on the Fourth by Mr. Lucas, the senior editor of the Minerva, is published, in extenso, in the Star, with a brief editorial commendation closing with the following remarks: "The oration needs none of our praise. We only hope it will gain the attentive perusal of all who have a relish for the beauties of strong and polished language, when employed to enforce correct and noble sentiments."

It was in the midst of such society that JACOB JOHNSON lived and moved and had his being.

Raleigh was just twenty years old at the time of his death. My first knowledge of the City dates ten years later. I entered the law office of the late Chief Justice Taylor in 1822. I have been familiar with the City from that day to this, and have enjoyed better opportunities in the intervening period, than most non-residents, to form correct opinions of men in public and private life. Society was at that day, no doubt, in ordinary estimation, greatly more refined and intelligent than in 1812. There were three churches, several schools, and the same three newspapers, with more youthful editors, more sprightly and spicy editorials.—William Peace, Chief Justice Taylor, Judge Seawell, Judge Potter, Joseph Gales, Wm. Boylan, Beverly Daniel, John, Sherwood, Stephen and William H. Haywood, General Calvin Jones, Secretary Hill and Col. Wm. Polk, who gave tone to society in its early days, exercised commanding influence even then.

There was less semblance of aristocracy then than now, much more conviviality and familiar association. In Mr. JOHNSON'S time game had not entirely disappeared from the forests. Hunting, fishing, and under the leadership of Beverly Daniel, deer driving and the fox chase, were amusements sometimes indulged in by the gravest members of society. Governor Turner and Treasurer Haywood, on horseback, accoutered with guns, shot pouches, horn and hounds, were sometimes to be seen among his followers. If manners were comparatively rude, it does not follow that the miscellaneous tea parties at which Mrs. Gales and other intellectual ladies mingled with the young and beautiful—the crowning of May Queens—fishing parties on Crabtree, winding up with a dance in the paper mill, were sources of less exquisite enjoyment than the more refined pastimes of the more select circles of later days. Shooting matches, where fat beef was lost and won, once as common in the rural districts as base ball clubs threaten to become at present, passed quietly into disuse amidst the exciting events of the war, and have been little known since 1812. But Fourth-of-July dinners spread in the State House by Cæsar, from the corner, or Capt. Scott from the Indian Queen, with as many standing toasts as there were States in the Union, and all the States were in the Union in those days, with the Governor for the time being, and Col. Polk always, as presiding officers, were jubilees to be remembered for a life time. These were occasions when the services of JACOB JOHNSON were always put in requisition, and were so rendered as to make him a universal favorite. In these out door sports no one entered more freely and joyously than Col. Henderson, then the editor of the Star. I remember on my first acquaintance with Raleigh to have heard the opinion expressed on repeated occasions that no citizen had succeeded in conciliating the warm regards of a greater number of personal friends than he. He was the man of all others to attract JACOB JOHNSON, and the man to whom of all others in the same sphere JOHNSON was calculated to be the most acceptable. It was at one of the merry makings so frequent in those days, in the spring of 1810 or 1811, that JOHNSON, by a deed of noble daring, saved the lives of Hendersen and Callum, at the ultimate cost of his own.

The late venerable William Peace, a citizen of Raleigh from 1775 to the time of his death, which occurred at the house of his friend and connection, Governor Holden, in the year 1868, in the 93d. year of his age, shortly previous to his death wrote and transmitted to me the following account of the transaction. I repeat the narrative substantially in the language of the manuscript: "At a large fishing party at Hunter's Mill pond on Walnut Creek, near Raleigh, upwards of fifty years ago, the late Colonel Henderson proposed for amusement a little skim in the canoe on the pond. He, a young Scotch merchant named Callum, and myself, entered the canoe. Henderson was helmsman and knew that neither Callum nor myself could swim. He soon began to rock the canoe, so as at times to dip water, and just above the pier head of the mill bore so heavily on the end where he was sitting as to tilt and turn it over, throwing all three into the pond. Callum caught hold of me. I begged him to let go. I could not swim. He did so, and seized Henderson, and both sank to the bottom in ten feet water. I struggled and kept myself above water until they came to my assistance from the shore and carried me out. A cry was then made for Henderson and Callum. JACOB JOHNSON was standing on the pier head. Without a moment's hesitation he leaped into the pond, dived in the direction of where he saw them sink, caught hold of Henderson and brought him up. In an instant a dozen swimmers were in the water from the shore to assist in bringing Henderson out, and Callum with him, who was clinging to the skirt of Henderson's coat underneath, and at the moment invisible." Fortunately for the sufferers, the late General Calvin Jones, Henderson's partner, was on shore. He was an eminent and able physician and surgeon, and the most efficacious means for the relief of the apparently drowned men were promptly applied. Henderson was soon able to speak, but life was, to ordinary observers, extinct in Callum, who was longer under the water. After an anxious interval of painful suspense he exhibited signs of life, was restored, and lived to marry and rear a family. His amiable and interesting widow was subsequently the wife of the Rev. N. H. Harding, D. D., and respectable descendants are now citizens of Raleigh. Henderson suffered from the effects of the adventure during more than a year, and JOHNSON, though he survived for a longer period, passed away eventually a martyr to humanity. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

I have met with but a single person who remembers the manner of JOHNSON'S death. He states that on a very cold day in the winter of 1811–'12, while tolling the State House bell for a funeral, he was seen suddenly to fall to the ground, from supposed chill and exhaustion. He was taken up and carried, in the first instance, to the office of the late Treasurer Haywood, and died at his own residence, in the neighborhood of the late Joseph Gales, on Saturday, the 4th of January, 1812.

The following obituary notice, written by Colonel Henderson, then editor of the Raleigh Star, is copied from that paper of the 12th of January, 1812:

"Died, in this City, on Saturday last, JACOB JOHNSON, who had for many years occupied an humble but useful station. He was City Constable, Sexton and Porter to the State Bank. In his last illness he was visited by the principal inhabitants of the City, by all of whom he was esteemed for his honesty, sobriety, industry, and humane friendly disposition. Among all by whom he was known and esteemed, none lament him more (except perhaps his own relatives) than the publisher of this paper, for he owes his life, on a particular occasion, to the boldness and humanity of JOHNSON."

The date of MR. JOHNSON'S birth, and his age at the time of his death, have not been ascertained. I have conversed with such of his contemporaries as I supposed to be most familiar with him, but after the lapse of fifty-five years, they cannot speak very definitely on the subject.

In relation to his general character there is no discrepancy of testimony. I am somewhat familiar with investigations of this nature, and can truly say that judging not merely from the uniform testimony of living witnesses, but from my personal knowledge of the character of the community in which he lived, from which he received and to which he imparted imprints of sentiments and opinions, I have never traced a more blameless history. He had many friends in every walk of life, and no enemies.

He was poor, but possessed at his death of more worldly goods than Andrew Jackson, the elder, the father of the first native of North Carolina who attained the Presidency. The precise date of the elder Jackson's birth and death are alike unknown. His illustrious son was mistaken until after he entered upon the duties of his high office, as to the State in which he himself was born. In his celebrated proclamation of 1832 he speaks of South Carolina as his native State. "The best information now attainable confirms the tradition which prevails in the Waxhaw county that Andrew Jackson, the elder, never owned an acre of land in America. He died in the log cabin erected by his own hands early in the spring of 1767. He was buried in the old Waxhaw church yard. No stone marks the spot where his remains were deposited a hundred years ago. The hero of New Orleans, the third son of his father, was born at the house of George McCamie, in the county of Mecklenburg, on the 15th. of March, 1767, very shortly after the death of his father."

James K. Polk, the second native North Carolinian who passed through Tennessee to the Presidency, was born in the same county of Mecklenburg, on the 17th November, 1795, about eleven miles South of Charlotte, and seventeen miles North of the birth-place of Gen. Jackson. On a journey to the Southwest, in June, 1849, I took some pains to ascertain the precise locality which gave birth to both. No vestige of the humble dwelling in which the latter first saw the light was discernible, but the spot where it stood could be identified.

The place where President Polk was born, was, in 1849, the property of Nathan Orr. The house pointed out to me, was of logs, had never been weather-boarded, and was much dilapidated. It was formed of two pens, one about 20 by 16, the other 12 by 16, making a structure 32 by 16, with a shingle roof, and brick chimney at the North end, and stood about two hundred yards south of little Sugar Creek. Samuel, the father of President Polk, though not born to opulence, began life under much more favorable auspices than the father of either the Seventh or the Seventeenth President of the United States. He was an energetic, industrious farmer in Mecklenburg, in 1806, when he removed to Tennessee, and undertook the agency in renting and selling of the immense and valuable estate in lands of the late Colonel William Polk in the most fertile section of that State.

Col. William Polk was the latest surviving field officer of the North Carolina line, the cotemporary and personal friend and associate of General Jackson, not less heroic in war, and quite as sagacious and more successful in private life than he. It is an interesting coincidence that the fathers of the eleventh and seventeenth Presidents of the United States were alike indebted for promotion to a more favorable position in life to the same individual; a man whose insight into character rarely admitted of the selection, and never of the retention, of an unworthy agent.

Colonel William Polk was the first President, and JACOB JOHNSON the first Porter, of the State Bank of North Carolina. It is from such beginnings, and under such auspices, that three natives of the State have passed from poverty and obscurity in North Carolina to comparative opulence and eminence in Tennessee, and thence to the highest post of honor in the Union and the world.

Citizens of Raleigh:—This brief and imperfect delineation of your past history was indispensable to a correct perception and appreciation of the person in honoring whom you do honor to yourselves. A reference to a few subsequent events which unite the present with the past, will close the duty your kindness has imposed upon me.

Thackeray, the English novelist, when on a visit to Prescott, the great American historian, in 1852, discerned on his library wall two crossed swords worn by the paternal and maternal ancestors of Prescott's children in the great war of American Independence. Both were unsheathed at Bunker Hill. One was drawn gallantly in the service of the King,—the other, in the hand of the Commander-in-Chief of the American forces, won victory and renown. The possessor of the harmless trophy earned for himself a name alike honored in his ancestor's country and his own, "where genius like his," says Thackeray, "will always find a welcome."

In the annals of Raleigh, from its foundation to the present time, the future historian will have occasion to present no more illustrious names, no more thrilling incidents, than will be found in the lives of two contemporaneous individuals indissolubly connected with the observances of this day.

Leonidas, the favorite son of Colonel William Polk, was born in 1806, two years earlier than the only surviving son of JACOB JOHNSON. The name of the former suggesting the memory of remarkable events and localities in the old and the new world,—Thermopylæ and Mecklenburg,—is of itself a reflex of the character of the heroic sire and the heroic son. There are probably few persons living, connected by no stronger tie than friendly associations, with the late Bishop Polk, who knew him so long, so intimately and so well as myself. He was my room-mate at the University. Four of the happiest days in my remembrance were passed when, in the autumn of 1859, thirty-six years after his departure for West Point, he returned and made his first and only visit to Chapel Hill. He came to my house to renew cherished associations, exchange the reminiscences of a life-time, and more especially for personal conference on the subject which then chiefly engrossed his thoughts, the establishment and endowment of the Southern University. The leading events of these thirty-six years of his history are familiar to you all. Divine grace, touching his heart near the close of his successful career at the Military Academy, had transformed the youthful soldier into the meek and humble follower of the cross, and he stood before me the able, energetic, enthusiastic Bishop of Louisiana, foremost in every good word and work. Two years afterward, at the house of his next oldest brother, in Tennessee, a telegraphic dispatch was placed in my hands, announcing that his associate at West Point, and his life-long friend, had designated him for high command in the Confederate army, and the anxious enquiry was propounded, "Will the Bishop accept?" He was fifty five years of age, of fine form and commanding presence, the beau ideal of a Christian soldier and gentleman. He was most actively engaged in the accomplishment of the great literary enterprise, the complete success of which, so near to his heart, promised the early fulfillment of his most ardent aspirations. He had an ample fortune—would he leave his delightful home, his wife, his children, and more than all, the flock of which Christ had made him the overseer, for any station which could be assigned him in the perilous conflict? "Would he accept?" He did accept: deliberately, advisedly, prayerfully accept the post of danger, and no bolder, purer patriot poured forth his life blood on either side in the dreadful conflict, which astounded and saddened the civilized world, and will constitute in all time to come the most melancholy chapter in the history of Christian progress and civilization. His last letter was written to advise me of the death of a gallant young officer, Captain Edwin E. Wright, of Memphis, Tennessee, who will be remembered by some of those who hear me, as a young man of extraordinary promise, who received the premium awarded for English composition, with appropriate commendation, at the hands of President Buchanan, in 1859. At the close of the Senior examination in May 1861, though the first distinction was assigned him, he pressed into the service without participating in the commencement exercises. His younger brother was his first Lieutenant, and his aged father, the Chief Justice of Tennessee, a member of General Bragg's Staff, when he fell at the head of his battery in the bloody battle of Murfreesboro,' in December, 1862.

Of the history of the son of JACOB JOHNSON, who commenced life under such comparatively unfavorable auspices, this is not the time to speak. The companion of his boyhood, whose character I have attempted to portray, has passed the portal of the grave. The President stands before you scarcely more time-worn than the Lieutenant General seemed at our last interview. His career in life thus far is one of the most remarkable in this, or any other country. His country and the world have decided between the two representative men of the two parties which divided North Carolina and the South, that he who achieved success, if not more pure and patriotic, was as brave, as disinterested, and wiser than his compeer. The monuments of the sires are before you. The crossed swords may be suspended as a memento of the past and a warning for the future.—The blood of the noblest heroes on both sides of the conflict will soon form a union in the veins of the descendants of those who met in deadly strife on many well fought fields. The most patriotic hearts North and South, East and West, already beat in unison. The time has arrived when patriotism, not less than Christianity, requires the forgiveness of all that we cannot forget. Let the crossed swords on the monument, surmounted by the stripes and stars, form an appropriate "Memorial Association" for the Confederate and Union dead, and no strife be witnessed, above their graves, but patriotism and generous emulation to do most to promote harmony and restore "the more perfect Union," designed by the Constitution of our common country!

DIED,

In this City, on Tuesday morning, after a long and painful illness, at the residence of his daughter, Gen'l W. A. BLOUNT, in the 75th. year of his age.

An All-Wise Providence has taken from us, only to transplant in a higher and brighter sphere, one of the noblest spirits that ever lived.

He was the oldest surviving member of a family, long known to the annals of the History of North Carolina. A reliable and steadfast friend, a sure dependence for the poor, an afflicted and a devoted parent, this dispensation of Divine Providence has caused a void which can never be filled.—Many times was he earnestly solicited to fill important public positions, but ever preferred the quiet enjoyments of his family circle. At about the age of 19, he entered the army, served through the war of 1812, was promoted to a Captaincy and stationed in the harbor of Charleston,—resigning at the close of the war. He served two years in the state Legislature, but most of his life was devoted to the pursuit of agriculture. His eminent success is the true index of a character in which were combined the greatest industry, energy, and perseverance, directed by a judgement but seldom known to err.

Such a life is worthy the pen of a more able Biographer. May his distressed family receive comfort and strength from above, to bear with fortitude such a blow, and say, "Our Father, thy will be done!"

LIFE INSURANCE.

From the Wall Street Reporter.

Ætna Life Insurance Company.

THE ÆTNA LIFE PRESENTS THE MOST signal example of American progress and accumulative energy. Every branch and department of the institution appears to be replete with the most active vitality and growth, and the rapidity of its advancement is so great that it promises to eclipse all its competitors and to become, if it is not already, the first Life Insurance Company of America.

How nearly these presages are already accomplished and how certain they are of complete and speedy fulfilment, may be gathered from the following facts. In 1861 it issued 509 policies, the premiums amounting to but $79,553.67. Since that period its growth has been something altogether unprecedented in the history of Life Insurance, its business having been annually doubled, tripled, and, on one occasion, almost quadrupled, till it has culminated in the yearly issue of over fourteen thousand policies, insuring over forty million dollars, at the same time that it was the recipient of the annual revenue of over Three and a Half Millions of Dollars.

It accordingly appears that the Ætna Life insured last year, with one exception, the largest number of persons of any Company in the United States, and even as to amount insured it is surpassed by only two Companies, and it is probable that it would not have been excelled by them in this respect, if it were not deemed incompatible with its permanent interests to grant a single policy for a sum exceeding ten thousand dollars; for, although so remarkably progressive, the Ætna's course has always been equally prudent, safe and conservative. But certainly in its increase of business in 1866 over that of 1865, including the issue of policies, amount insured, and total income, when its position and that of other Companies at the commencement of last year are duly considered, it must be regarded, beyond comparison, as the most successful of all. The present year witnesses no abatement of this youthful vigor and growth. On the contrary, we learn that the Company's increase of business in 1867 is nearly double that of the corresponding months of 1866. The realization of the avowed purpose of the management of the Ætna Life to make their Company the first, largest and best in the Union, appears therefore to have become a part of the "manifest destiny of the nation."

It must be admitted that there is something truly inspiring in the contemplation of the noble achievements of this Company; for although the material progress it has made is measurable by the actuary, the good it has done and the good it is yet destined to accomplish, transcend the calculation of all but Omniscience. The battle's victory, the triumph of material art and science are less glorious than the conquests of genuine philanthropy, of which Life Insurance is perhaps the most perfect emanation. In all countries and in all times the widow and orphan have been regarded as special objects of solicitude and beauty by the good and great, and even in the dark ages, the dauntless and true knight added a crowning lustre to his fame, by affording them relief and protection. Yet never until now—never until the complete establishment of Life Insurance, have the widow, orphan, and such dependents been justly, sufficiently, liberally and honorably provided for, and a Company like the Ætna Life, that takes the lead in this most beneficent work, is therefore deserving of all honor, praise and encouragement.

There is yet one feature peculiar to the Ætna Life entitled to especial commendation and that is its economy. In this regard, notwithstanding its activity, youth, growth, and amount of new business, it presents a remarkable exception, and the skill and care of its President, E. A. Bulkeley, Esq., and its zealous and able Secretary, T. O Enders, Esq., are manifested in the success which has attended their efforts to unite in their management the qualities of extraordinary efficiency and strict economy. The ratio of the Ætna's expenses to premium and total income is lower than that of the Mutual Life, its Titanic rival, and, under the latter heading, less than that of the Connecticut Mutual, notwithstanding the advantages possessed by these companies in their great accumulation of many years' business; but, although the ratio of the Ætna's disbursements is now considerably below the general average, it must have been reduced below that of any but of its generous, and in many instances, most laudable practice of paying claims before maturity.

It keeps no orphan or widow waiting for her insurance money, even when not yet legally payable. It consults the spirit and design of the institution rather than the policy of preparing materials for an attractive exhibit. This genial benevolence and liberal dealing render the company a great favorite with the public.

Similar commendation might be justly extended to its other popular features and reforms, including its non-forfeiture policies, its helpful credit given during the continuance of policy, its equitable division of all the profits among the insured, except the six per cent. on the stock capital, and its excellent and productive dividend system. The last feature has afforded great satisfaction to its members, for its dividend which "is paid two years from date of policy and annually thereafter on the amount of premium," has this year, and for several years past, amounted to 30 per cent., and is paid promptly in the same year it is declared in cash on cash policies, or applied to the credit of those who have received credit.—We should, however, exceed the space to which we are restricted, if we were to enumerate the special advantages enjoyed by the members of the Ætna Life, who now number over thirty thousand, and who seem to fully appreciate their privileges, for they are the company's voluntary and in many instances most efficient agents, and assist in spreading its benefits with an earnestness and cordiality which speak well for their benevolence and vol

THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1867.

GOV. SWAIN'S ORATION.

We have the pleasure of presenting to our readers, this morning, the interesting, able and instructive oration, pronounced by the Hon. D. L. Swain, on the occasion of crowning the monument to Jacob Johnson, the father of the President, on Tuesday morning.

The perusal of this production confirms us in the high commendation which we gave it after having listened to it. As a historical narrative, it is alike admirable and genial in style and valuable in point of the information which it communicates.—The beautiful analogy which marks the peroration is peculiarly eloquent and illustrative, but the entire Oration is worthy the distinguished President of the University.

DEPARTURE OF THE PRESIDENT.—The President and suite left this City on yesterday morning, at 9 o'clock, on a special train, for Chapel Hill, where they will remain until Friday morning, in attendance upon the exercises at the University. This will be the third occasion, within the last twenty years, on which that venerable institution has been honored by the presence of the Chief Magistrate of the nation,—Mr. Polk having visited his Alma Mata in 1847, and Mr. Buchanan having attended the Commencement of 1859. We hope to be able to present to our readers a full account of what may be said and done at the "seat of learning" during the next few days.

The President and suite were escorted to the Depot, from the Yarborough House, on yesterday morning, by the same military detachments that welcomed their arrival.—Gov. Worth and Gen. Sickles accompanied the party to the University. A number of other distinguished gentlemen also went up, and the prospect, therefore, is, that the annual literary festival will be one, every way, of unsurpassed attractions.

The President, en route for the Depot, was greeted with many demonstrations of esteem. The ladies on the line of procession waved their handkerchiefs in token of respect, and the President acknowledged all such exhibitions in an appropriate manner.

The President, and his distinguished associates, expressed themselves, we are gratified to know, in the most cordial terms of pleasure at the character of their reception and entertainment in Raleigh. They left with the most grateful feelings for our people, and the President with a heightened regard for his native City.

We must do our City authorities the justice to say that all their arrangements have been well and judiciously ordered, and were such as to reflect credit upon their good taste. The police of the City were active, untiring and successful in their efforts to preserve order and maintain quiet. We have heard of nothing unpleasant having occurred to mar the harmony and general unity of the occasion.

THE PRESIDENT, accompanied by Messrs. Seward and Randall, Gov. Worth and Gen. Sickles, took a walk about the City, on Tuesday afternoon,—visiting, among other places of interest, the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institution, by invitation of the Superintendent, W. J. Palmer, Esq., and the Insane Asylum, by invitation of Dr. Fisher.—The party expressed themselves greatly pleased with what they saw, and we understand that Gen. Sickles, on leaving, divided $20 among the children of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum.

WE BELIEVE that all on whose shoulders rested the responsibility of endeavoring to make the President's visit pass off well,—Mayor, Commissioners, Police, Citizens,—succeeded; but Blair, of the Yarborough, did his part to perfection. We hear his Hotel spoken of on all hands in terms of the highest praise. His State Dinner to the President was gotten up in superb style,—reflecting great credit upon his skill as a caterer and his liberality as a public spirited citizen.

THE FEDERAL COURT.—This tribunal met at 10 o'clock in the Senate chamber, pursuant to adjournment, on yesterday.—There was nothing of importance transacted, except the admission of new applicants to practice.

In addition to the gentlemen present on Monday last, we noticed: Judge Shepherd, Gov. Vance, Hon. Wm. N. H. Smith, Col. Jas. T. Morehead, Capt. Jos. Davis, Wm. A. Jenkins, R. Y. McAden, Hon. Jos. Turner, Col. W. J. Clarke, Jno. A. Gilmer, Jr., Judge Barnes, Judge Green, of Newbern Criminal Court, Col. Ed. Cantwell, Henry Bryan, Thomas Devereux, M. S. Robins and Montford McGeehee.

It is expected that Chief Justice Chase will charge the Grand Jury to-day.

BAD TASTE.—We learn that a meeting was held, last night, at Tupper's Church, composed of white and black Radicals, who were so lost to propriety and to what is due to official position, that they assailed President Johnson and his associates in no measured terms, and also spoke unbecomingly of Gen. Sickles, the Commander of the District. If any of the parties were not natives and citizens, they had very little to do, thus to discredit our city and people. Whatever differences may prevail among us, we supposed that none were so low as to violate the courtesies due visitors of position and eminence, while in the City.

DARING ROBBERY.—The residence of Henry Mahler, Esq., on Fayetteville street, was entered on Tuesday night, and some clothing, a valuable gold watch, and other articles, abstracted.

Robberies in this city are becoming very frequent,—and many of them are of a very bold character. It behooves the Police to be actively on the alert.

AMONG THE many visitors to the City, within the past few days, we have been pleased to see Mr. F. C. DeFontaine, of the South Carolina press, well known as "Personne" of the Charleston Courier during the war, and Mr. Yates, of the Charlotte Democrat.

CORRECTION.—Our Richmond exchanges led us into error in announcing Wm. S. Mitchell, Esq., of Washington City, as the "Usher at the White House." He is a gentleman of means, who simply accompanied the President on his tour.

HON. KENNETH RAYNER.—This distinguished son of North Carolina will leave us this week for Mississippi, which is to be his future home. Mr. Rayner is one of our most decided men of mark; and we are truly sorry that North Carolina is to be deprived of his ability and services. Our entire community will deeply regret the void which will be made in our society by the departure of his most estimable family.

CHIEF-JUSTICE CHASE.—This distinguished functionary reached Raleigh yesterday afternoon. He was met at the Depot by a large crowd of blacks, composing various societies, with banners, &c., and escorted to the Yarborough Hotel. There were very few white participants. A nondescript band of music, playing something after the fashion of "two little pigs, &c.," preceded the cortege. We noticed in the foremost carriage the Chief Justice, D. R. Goodloe, Esq., the Hon. Nat. Boyden and Font Taylord. Next came a carriage containing six passengers—four colored and two white; and then came a third, containing R. P. Dick, Esq., and others—of what hue we are not apprised.

On arriving at the Hotel, the Chief Justice made acknowledgments for his complimentary reception in a few appropriate remarks. We are pleased to say that the distinguished gentleman refrained from political allusions.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Wheat Thresher, &c., for sale: R. S. Beall, Lenoir, N. C.

Medical College of Virginia,—Election of Professors: L. S. Joynes, M. D. Dean of the Faculty, Richmond.

Agricultural Ware-House: Mitchell, Allen & Co., Newbern.

The General Meeting of the Stockholders of the Bank of the State of North Carolina will be held in this City on Monday, 1st prox.

THE REMOVAL of the Mayor and Commissioners of Fayetteville is much to be regretted. Nothing, however, is calculated to excite surprise in these days. We presume that there are few communities in the Country more quiet, peaceable and law-abiding than that of our sister town.

R. F. LEHMAN, Esq., of Newbern, has been appointed Register in Bankruptcy for the Craven Congressional District.

It is now stated that John H. Surratt will certainly be tried on the 10th inst.

The board of Levee Commissioners have organized by electing Robt. B. Stille, President, E. H. Angamdi, Chief Engineer, and N. C. Snothen, Secretary. The selections are excellent and give general satisfaction, and assure the immediate rebuilding and repairing of the Levees.

Gen. Longstreet publishes a letter this morning in the Republican, containing the following paragraph: "The military bill and amendment are a peace offering and we should accept them as such, and place ourselves upon them as the starting point from which to meet future political issues as they arise."

Gov. Wells publishes a letter, addressed to the President, protesting against his removal, and another very caustic one, addressed to General Sheridan, in which he says there is not a word of truth in the charge that he has impeded the execution of the laws of Congress.

GREENBRIER WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS,

WILL BE OPENED 1ST. OF JUNE, 1867.

The popular and far-famed WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in Greenbrier county, West Virginia, will be open the ensuing season for the accommodation of a large number of visitors, and will be kept in the best style by the Lessees, GEORGE, L. PEYTON & CO., assisted by WILLIAM H. PEYTON, brother of the principal, both of whom are experienced hotel-keepers.

Near the White Sulphur is an excellent Chalybeate Spring.

Rosenberger's celebrated BRASS AND STRING BAND of Baltimore has been engaged for the season.

The rights of parties owning Cottages at these Springs will be respected upon their giving timely notice to the lessees of their purpose to occupy them.

The railroad will be completed to Covington by 1st. July; from thence to the Springs by stage, and a sufficiency of coaches will be provided to ensure comfort to passengers, as not over ten will go upon a single coach.

Cholera is unknown in the regions of the White Sulphur Springs.

KNOW THY DESTINY.

MADAME E. F. THORNTON, the great English Astrologist, Clairvoyant and Psychometrician, who has astonished the scientific classes of the Old World, has now located herself at Hudson, N. Y. Madame Thornton possesses such wonderful powers of second sight, as to enable her to impart knowledge of the greatest importance to the single or married of either sex. While in a state of trance, she delineates the very features of the person you are to marry, and by the aid of an instrument of intense power, known as the Psychometrope, guarantees to produce a life-like picture of the future husband or wife of the applicant, together with date of marriage, position in life, leading traits of character, &c. This is no humbug, as thousands of testimonials can assert. She will send when desired a certified certificate, or written guarantee, that the picture is what it purports to be. By enclosing a small lock of hair and stating place of birth, age, disposition and complexion, and enclosing fifty cents and stamped envelope addressed to yourself, you will receive the picture and desired information by return mail. All communications sacredly confidential. Address in confidence, MADAME E. F. THORNTON, P. O. Box 223, Hudson, N. Y.

ROCKBRIDGE ALUM SPRINGS.

OPEN JUNE 1

This favorite and delightful watering-place, having undergone thorough renovation, is prepared to receive visitors. The owners have made every effort in the outfit and equipment to render the place more than ever attractive to those in quest of recreation, while to the invalid its medicinal waters hold out new hopes of health. It may be confidently claimed for them that they have in a great many cases relieved, and in many more cases cured, the following diseases: SCROFULA, and many chronic CUTANEOUS diseases; CHRONIC THROAT, BRONCHITIS, DYSPEPSIA, CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, DROPSY, AFFECTIONS of KIDNEY and BLADDER, and PILES; and, in connection with the Hot Baths, CHRONIC RHEUMATISM.

As an appetizer, a tonic, and general restorative to an enfeebled constitution, it is perhaps unrivalled amongst mineral waters. The proprietors have engaged for the approaching season both for the LAWN and the BALL-ROOM.

A VERY SUPERIOR BAND OF MUSIC,

THE BILLIARD AND BOWLING SALOONS, both for ladies and gentlemen, will be found in more complete order than ever before.

From the very extensive preparations now making at all the leading Virginia Springs, a heavy travel is anticipated, and, we think, will be attracted. It shall be the aim of the undersigned to keep their establishment FULLY UP TO THE FOREMOST; and they hope to see a renewal of the social re-unions which in former years lent such a charm to these mountain retreats.

Passengers by the Virginia Central railroad get off the cars at GOSHEN Depot. Eight (8) miles of staging over a smooth road lands them at the Springs.

BOARD, $3,50 PER DAY; $90 PER MONTH.

We have secured the efficient services of Captain WILLIAM H. SALE, so long and favorably known to the public, in connection with these Springs.

It is also a fact that the Company, are now ready to pay ANOTHER loss, by the death of Col. Jno. F. Sanders, of Johnston county of $5,000, who died 17th. May, and the Administrator is invited to come forward.

It is a fact that half of the premium can be paid by a note at 6 per ct. int: and a general permit to travel or reside in any part of the United States without any extra charge.

It is a fact, as stated in the Wall Street Reporter: The Ætna Company is one of the 1st. Class Companies in America.

GENERAL ORDER NO. 32.

HEADQUARTERS, 2ND MILITARY DISTRICT,
Charleston, May 30.

General Orders No. 32.

1. Any citizen, a qualified voter according to the requirements of the Act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, passed March 2nd, 1867, and the act supplemental thereto, passed March 23rd. 1867, is eligible to office in the Provisional government of North and South Carolina. All persons appointed to office will be required to take the oath prescribed by the act aforesaid and to file the same duly subscribed and sworn with the Post Commander.

2. All citizens assessed for taxes, and who shall have paid taxes for the current year, are qualified to serve as jurors. It shall be the duty of the proper civil officers, charged with providing lists of jurors, to proceed within their several jurisdictions, without delay, and ascertain the names of all qualified persons, and place them on the jury lists, and from such revised lists all jurors shall be hereafter summoned, and drawn in the manner required by law.

3. All citizens are eligible to follow any licensed calling, employment or avocation, subject to such impartial regulations as may be prescribed by municipal or other competent authority, not inconsistent with common rights and the Constitution and laws of the United States. The bond required as security shall not exceed the penal sum of one hundred dollars. One or more sureties being citizens and worth, in the aggregate, double the amount of the bond, over and above just debts, will be sufficient.

4. The Mayors of cities and other municipal and town officers, and all Sheriffs, Magistrates and Police officers, are required to be vigilant and efficient in maintaining order, and in the discharge of their duties. They will be expected to co-operate with the military authorities.

5. Post commanders may summon to their aid, whenever the ordinary means at their disposal shall not be sufficient to execute their orders, such of the civil officers, and as many of the citizens, within the territorial limits of the military post, as may be necessary, and the neglect or refusal of any person to aid and assist in the execution of the orders of the Commanding officer will be deemed a misdemeanor, punishable by such fine and imprisonment as may be imposed by a military tribunal approved by the Commanding General.

6. No license for the sale of intoxicating liquors in quantities less than one gallon or to be drank on the premises shall be granted to any person other than an Inn-keeper. The number of such licenses shall be determined, and the fees to be charged for each license shall be prescribed and collected, by the municipal or town authorities and appropriated exclusively for the benefit of the poor. If any person shall be found drunk on the premises where liquor is sold, the license may be revoked by any magistrate. The tax imposed by the Internal Revenue laws of the United States is an additional charge and does not excuse the person from the observance of local regulations, nor exempt him from the payment of such other license fees as may be imposed by the municipal or other competent authorities.

7. All contracts hereafter made for the manufacture, sale or transportation, storage or insurance of intoxicating liquors shall within this military district be deemed and treated as against public policy, and no civil action, suit or proceedings for the enforcement of any such contract shall be entertained in any court.

8 In public conveyances on railroads, highways, streets or navigable waters, no discrimination because of color or caste shall be made, and the common rights of all citizens therein shall be recognized and respected. The violation of this regulation will be deemed a misdemeanor and render the offender liable to arrest and trial by a Military tribunal to be designated by the commanding General, besides such damages as the injured party may sue for and recover in the civil Courts.

9. The remedy by distress for rent is abolished. Where lands are leased, or let out for hire or rent, cotton, corn or other produce of the same, when severed from the land, may be impounded, but the same shall not be removed. Any cotton, corn or other produce so impounded shall be held as security for the rent or hire so claimed and may be sold in satisfaction of any judgment for the same, Provided, that any unsatisfied claim for labor bestowed upon the cultivation of such cotton, corn, or other produce, shall, in no case, be postponed to any demand for rent or hire. But to the extent of such claim for labor there shall be a lien on such cotton, corn and other produce having preference over any claim for rent or hire.

By command of
MAJ. GEN. SICKLES,
J. W. CLOUS, A. A. A. G.

"THE CHURCH OF THE STRANGERS,"

NEW YORK,

REV. DR. DEEMS, PASTOR.

STRANGERS visiting New York are respectfully informed that a congregation, composed of Christians of different Protestant denominations, has been organized under the pastoral charge of the Rev. CHARLES F. DEEMS, D. D., of North Carolina. Visiting clergymen of the several churches are invited to officiate. No sectarianism, no partisan politics, will be allowed to interfere with the worship.

The service is held morning and night in the Large Chapel of the University, immediately West of the New York Hotel.

The Pastor's residence and post office address is 221 WEST 34th. STREET. Strangers in the city, who are sick or in distress, may freely call upon Dr. Deems for pastoral service.

When any member of any church comes to New York to engage in business, let him call promptly on the Pastor of the Church of the Strangers. Especially let this be done in the case of young men who will have a cordial welcome.

Newspapers through the country, friendly to the enterprise, will please copy this advertisement and allow it to stand.

Congressional Reconstruction Acts.

For the information of our readers we republish as follows the late reconstruction act of Congress, known as the Sherman-Shellabarger bill. We shall add to it the Howard Amendment, Test Oath and the Supplementary act, all of which will be kept standing until the necessary information they contain shall be generally and fully understood.

THE RECONSTRUCTION ACT.

AN ACT to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States.

[Passed over the President's Veto, March 2d, 1867.]

WHEREAS, no legal State governments or adequate protection for life or property now exists in the rebel States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Texas, and Arkansas; and whereas it is necessary that peace and good order should be enforced in said States until loyal and Republican State Governments can be legally established: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That said rebel States shall be divided into military districts and made subject to the military authority of the United States, as hereinafter prescribed, and for that purpose Virginia shall constitute the first district: North Carolina and South Carolina the second district: Georgia, Alabama and Florida the third district: Mississippi and Arkansas the fourth district; and Louisiana and Texas the fifth district.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the President to assign to the command of each of said districts an officer of the army, not below the rank of Brigadier general, and to detail a sufficient military force to enable such officer to perform his duties and enforce his authority within the district to which he is assigned.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of each officer assigned as aforesaid to protect all persons in their rights of person and property, to suppress insurrection, disorder and violence, and to punish or cause to be punished all disturbers of the public peace and criminals, and to this end he may allow local civil tribunals to take jurisdiction of and to try offenders, or, when in his judgement it may be necessary for the trial of offenders, he shall have power to organize military commissions or tribunals for that purpose, and all interference, under color of State authority, with the exercise of military authority under this act shall be null and void.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That all persons put under military arrest by virtue of this act shall be tried without unnecessary delay, and no cruel or unusual punishment shall be inflicted; and no sentence of any military commission or tribunal hereby authorized, affecting the life or liberty of any person, shall be executed until it is approved by the officer in command of the district, and the laws and regulations for the government of the army shall not be affected by this act, except in so far as they conflict with its provisions. Provided, That no sentence of death, under the provisions of this act, shall be carried into effect without the approval of the President.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That when the people of any one of said rebel States shall have formed a constitution of government in conformity with the Constitution of the United States in all respects, framed by a convention of delegates elected by the male citizens of said State, twenty one years old and upwards, of whatever race, color or previous condition, who have been residents in said State for one year previous to the day of such election, except such as may be disfranchised for participation in the rebellion, or for felony at common law, and when such constitution shall provide that the elective franchise shall be enjoyed by all such persons as have the qualifications herein stated for electors of delegates; and when such constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such Constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such constitution shall have been submitted to Congress for examination and approval, and Congress shall have approved the same; and when the said State, by a vote of its legislature, elected under said constitution, shall have adopted the amendment to the constitution of the United States, proposed by the Thirty-ninth Congress, and known as article fourteen; and when said article shall have become a part of the constitution of the United States, said State shall be declared entitled to representation in Congress, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom, on their taking the oath prescribed by law; and then and thereafter the preceding sections of this act shall be inoperative in said State. Provided, That no person excluded from the privilege of holding office by said amendment to the constitution of the United States shall be eligible to election as a member of the convention to frame a constitution for any of said rebel States, nor shall any such person vote for members of such convention.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That until the people of said rebel States shall be by law admitted to representation in the Congress of the United States, any civil government which may exist therein shall be deemed provisional only, and in all respects subject to the paramount authority of the United States at any time to abolish, modify, control or supersede the same; and in all elections to any office under such provisional governments all persons shall be entitled to vote, and none others, who are entitled to vote under the provisions of the fifth section of this act; and no person shall be eligible to any office under such provisional governments who would be disqualified from holding office under the provisions of the third article of said constitutional amendment.

SCHUYLER COLFAX,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
LAFAYETTE S. FOSTER,

The following is the Constitutional Amendment referred to in the 4th. section of the Sherman Bill:

Proposed Constitutional Amendment.

ARTICLE XIV.

Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Sec. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, representatives in Congress, executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State being twenty-one years of age and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Sec. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice-President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

Sec. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims, shall be held illegal and void.

Sec. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

The following is the oath of office referred to in the 5th section of the bill, and also in the 6th of the Supplementary Bill:

An Act to Prescribe an Oath of Office and for Other Purposes.

Be it enacted, That hereafter any person elected or appointed to any office of honor or profit under the government of the United States, either in the civil, military or naval department of the public service, except the President of the United States, shall before entering upon the duties of such office, and before being entitled to any of the salary or other emolument thereof, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I, A B, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the U. S. since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have never sought nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority, or pretended authority, in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, power or constitution within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto; and I do further swear (or affirm) that to the best of my knowlege and ability, I will support and defend the constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God," which oath, so taken and signed, shall be preserved among the files of the Court, Houses of Congress, or the department to which said officer may appertain. And any person who may falsely take said oath shall be guilty of perjury, and on conviction, in addition to the penalties now prescribed for that offence, shall be deprived of his office, and rendered incapable, forever after, of holding any office or place under the United States.

Approved July 2, 1862.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE STEVENS-SHERMAN-SHELLABARGER BILL.

AN ACT supplemental to an act entitled an act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, passed March 2, 1867, and to facilitate restoration.

Be it enacted &c., That before the first day of September, 1867, the commanding general in each district defined by the act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, approved March 2, 1867, shall cause a registration to be made of the male citizens of the United States, twenty-one years of age, and upwards, resident in each county or parish in the State or States included in his district, which registration will include only those persons who are qualified to vote for delegates by the act aforesaid, and who shall have taken and subscribed the following oath or affirmation:

"I, ——, do solemnly swear, or affirm, in the presence of Almighty God, that I am a citizen of the State of ——; that I have resided in said State for ——months next preceding this day, and now reside in the county of ——, or the parish of ——, in said State, as the case may be; that I am 21 years old; that I have not been disfranchised for participation in any rebellion or civil war against the United States, nor for felony committed against the laws of any State or of the United States; that I have never been a member of any State Legislature, or held any executive or judicial office in any State, and afterwards engaged in insurrection and rebellion against the United States, and given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof: that I have never taken an oath as a member of Congress of the United States, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, and afterwards engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof; that I will faithfully support the Constitution and obey the laws of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, encourage others so to do. So help me God."

which oath or affirmation may be administered by any registering officer.

Sec. 2. That after the completion of the registration hereby provided for in any State at such time and place therein as the commanding general shall appoint and direct, of which at least thirty day's public notice shall be given, an election shall be held of delegates to a convention for the purpose of establishing a constitution and civil government for such State loyal to the Union; said convention in each State, except Virginia, to consist of the same number of members as the most numerous branch of the State Legislature of such State in the year 1860, to be apportioned among the several districts, counties, or parishes of such State by the commanding general, giving to each, representation in the ratio of voters registered as aforesaid as nearly as may be. The convention in Virginia shall consist of the same number of members as represented the territory now constituting Virginia in the most numerous branch of the Legislature of said State in the year 1860, to be apportioned as aforesaid.

Sec. 3. That at such election the registered voters of each State shall vote for or against a convention to form a constitution thereof under this act. Those voting in favor of such a convention shall have written or printed on the ballots by which they vote for delegates, as aforesaid, the words "for a convention;" and those voting against such a convention shall have written or printed on such ballots the words "against a convention." The persons appointed to superintend said election, and to make return of the votes given thereat, as herein provided, shall count and make return of the votes given for and against a convention; and the commanding general, to whom the same shall have been returned, shall ascertain and declare the total vote in each State for and against a convention. If a majority of the votes given on that question shall be for a convention, then a convention shall be held, as hereinafter provided; but if a majority of said votes shall be against a convention, then no convention shall be held under this act: Provided, That such convention shall not be held unless a majority of all such registered voters shall have voted on the question of holding such convention.

Sec. 4. That the commanding general of each district shall appoint such loyal officers or persons as may be necessary, not exceeding three in each election district, in any State, to make and complete the registration, superintend the election, and make return to him of the votes, lists of voters and of the persons elected as delegates by a plurality of the votes cast at said election; and upon receiving said returns he shall open the same, ascertain the persons elected as delegates according to the returns of the officers who conducted said election, and make proclamation thereof; and if a majority of the votes given on that question shall be for a convention, the commanding general within sixty days from the date of election, shall notify the delegates to assemble in convention at a time and place to be mentioned in the notification, and said convention, when organized, shall proceed to frame a Constitution and civil government according to the provisions of this act, and the act to which it is supplementary; and when the same shall have been so framed, said Constitution shall be submitted by the convention for ratification to the persons registered under the provisions of this act, at an election to be conducted by the officers, or persons appointed by the commanding general as hereinbefore provided, and to be held after the expiration of thirty days from the date of notice thereof to be given by said convention, and the returns thereof shall be made to the commanding general of the district.

Sec. 5 That if, according to said returns, the constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the votes of the registered electors qualified as herein specified, cast at said election, at least one-half of all the registered voters voting upon the question of such ratification, the president of the convention shall transmit a copy of the same, duly certified, to the President of the United States, who shall forthwith transmit the same to Congress, if then in session, and if not in session, then immediately upon its next assembling; and if it shall moreover appear to Congress that the election was one at which all the registered and qualified electors in the State had an opportunity to vote freely and without restraint, fear or the influence of fraud, and if Congress shall be satisfied that such constitution meets the approval of a majority of the qualified electors in the State, and if the said constitution shall be declared by Congress to be in conformity with the provisions of the act to which this is supplementary, and the other provisions of said act shall have been complied with, and the said constitution shall be approved by Congress, the State shall be declared entitled to representation, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom as herein provided.

Sec. 6. That all elections in the States mentioned in the said "Act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States," shall, during the operation of said act, be by ballot; and all officers making the said registration of voters and conducting said elections shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, subscribe an oath faithfully to perform the duties of their said office, and the oath prescribed by the act approved July 2, 1862, entitled "An act to prescribe an oath of office:" Provided, That if any person shall knowingly and falsely take and subscribe any oath in this act prescribed, such person so offending, and being thereof duly convicted, shall be subject to the pains, penalties and disabilities which by law are provided for the punishment of the crime of wilful and corrupt perjury.

Sec. 7. That all expenses incurred by the several commanding generals, or by virtue of any orders issued or appointments made by them under or by virtue of this act, shall be paid out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Sec. 8. That the convention for each State shall prescribe the fees, salary, and compensation to be paid to all delegates and other officers, and agents herein authorized or necessary to carry into effect the purposes of this act, not herein otherwise provided for, and shall provide for the levy and collection of such taxes on the property in such State as may be necessary to pay the same.

Sec. 9. That the word "article" in the sixth section of the act to which this is supplementary shall be construed to mean "section."

THE ASSESSOR'S LIST FOR THE YEAR 1867 has been placed in my hands for collection.—All persons on whom assessments have been made during that period in Wake county, will meet me or my deputy at Raleigh on the 9th. to 15th. June prepared to pay their taxes.

All Distillers, Tobacco, Snuff and Cigar Manufacturers, must come prepared to give bond and security, and all who have made application for license must come forward and take out their license. Those who fail to comply with these requirements will be subject to a heavy penalty.

According to the provisions of the law those who do not pay, at the required time, will be liable to ten per cent. additional upon their taxes. The special attention of those who have not paid on the back lists is called to this fact.

ATTRACTIVE STOCK.

McILWAINE & CO.,

Wholesale Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Dry Goods, Notions & Clothing,

NO. 79 SYCAMORE, and

NO. 1 TABB STREETS,

PETERSBURG, VIRGINIA,

Take pleasure in announcing to the trade that they have in store, ready for exhibition, a large assortment of embracing all articles usually kept in wholesale establishments. Their long business experience with the merchants of

NEW SPRING GOODS,

has made them familiar with their wants; this together with the advantages they possess in purchasing their supplies, enables them to offer goods at such prices as will insure satisfaction. They specially invite the attention of buyers to their extensive stock of manufactured expressly to their own order, which for style, workmanship and cheapness cannot be surpassed. They would also call attention to a full line of

NOTIONS,

All of which will be offered to purchasers on the very best terms, by Capt. Edward Graham and Mr. John McNeese, who have charge of the department.
